Fire District Purchases Two Giant Mack Pumper Trucks

All Class A Equipment to be Used Here

The Lemon Grove Fire District has purchased two modern fire fighting trucks.

The commissioners met today (Thursday) with representatives of four fire truck manufacturers and closed a deal at 4 o'clock this afternoon with the Mack International Motor Truck Corp. for the following:

One Model 95, 1000 gallon class A pumper and one model 45 class A 500 gallon pumper, at a total cost of $21,500.

The 500 gallon truck will be delivered about January 1. The other truck, a more complicated affair, will be delivered early next year.

The commissioners were in session continuously from 8 o'clock this morning until 4 o'clock this afternoon going over the bids and hearing the proposals of the representatives of the competing companies.

Chairman Mulkey told the Review this afternoon that this was the best deal the district could hope to get, as the Mack company's bid was $1,000 under the next highest bidder, and that the district is getting the two trucks for but little more than what the commissioners had expected to pay for one truck.

The quotation of the Mack company was as of August 15, and Commissioner Mulkey stated that he understood that the trucks had risen in price since that date.

The equipment the commissioners have purchased will last Lemon Grove for 20 years or more, and will care for any anticipated growth of the community during the time.

The commissioners endeavored to get the best for the least amount of money, and this equipment amply meets the Fire Underwriters specifications.

Other bids were $22,250; $25,000 and $27,746.

Preliminary Survey Made

John H. Colton, district engineer of the Fire Underwriters of the Pacific, was in Lemon Grove last week at the request of the Fire Commissioners, for the purpose of making a preliminary survey of the district.

The purchase of the equipment follows closely the recommendations of the Board of Fire Underwriters. The preliminary survey made by Mr. Colton was encouraging to the Commissioners, and from all indications our new rating under fire protection can be obtained much sooner than had been anticipated.

Mr. Colton indicated that he could be back in Lemon Grove in April to give the district its first rating.

This will entail considerable work training personnel and the taking care of the many incidentals pursuant to the inspection, but the district will be funetioning as a full-fledged fire protection district by that time, and we should get a decrease in insurance rates very shortly thereafter.

V.L.M. NEIGHBORHOOD CLUB

Hi, Neighbor

by Mac Rex Graham

Schools are opening all over the State next Monday morning. This means that thousands of children are on the streets, either walking to and from school or getting on or off school buses.

★ ★ ★

Every motorist should feel an added responsibility in driving more carefully. Last year, 586 children of school age were killed and 21,487 were injured in traffic mishaps in California. Many of them could have been prevented.

★ ★ ★

When children are walking along the road, motorists should slow down enough that they could stop in an emergency. This means that the car must have good brakes—alertness is not enough if the brakes do not hold.

★ ★ ★

Why all the hurry? Who ever heard of any one getting to the head of a traffic parade, anyway, unless it might be the grim reaper, Death.

★ ★ ★

For those who have not taken the beginners to register for kindergarten, there is still time—this Friday.

★ ★ ★

That is a pretty good idea for mother to take her little precious to the school anyway, especially if the child is timid. It gives him or her an idea of what the school room looks like and of the big folks they are going to be with in school hours.

★ ★ ★

These little folks are individuals, the same as you or I.

★ ★ ★

Did you ever move into a strange community? Remember how you dreaded going into a strange church, your first time at PTA or the first time at the Woman's Club.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

And to you mothers who are new to this community—and there are many—don't fail to identify yourself with some group.

★ ★ ★

Lemon Grove's churches are friendly churches and you will be made to feel at home and welcome.

★ ★ ★

Then there is the P.T.A. which means Parents and Teachers associated together for the betterment of the home and school and State through better education for parents as well as children.

★ ★ ★

Then there are the Woman's Federated Clubs — in Lemon Grove known as the Forward Club and Forward Juniors.

★ ★ ★

Their motto: "Strength United Is Stronger." The same theme upon which our country was founded.

★ ★ ★

And Federated Clubs have made women's efforts stronger. They have a proud record in community service, through self improvement in art, homemaking, gardening, literature, drama, conservation, citizenship, health, legislation, music, Bible study and numerous other fields.

★ ★ ★

A federated club woman becomes interested in her county as well, and then through knowledge attained at County programs, is interested in her District and State.

★ ★ ★

The California Federation of Women's Club, the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, the State Music Federation, Federation of Business Women and other groups have played no small part in making California what it is today.

★ ★ ★

There is a great deal of satisfaction of being an integral part of a group that is making its community a better place in which to live.

PARENTS GUILD NEWS

A meeting of the Executive Board of the Parents Guild of St. John of the Cross will be held next Thursday at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium.

George Zettiner, James Olney and Joseph Galen have revamped the school playgrounds with cleaning and painting in readiness for school.

New Telephone Cable Needed

Lemon Grove's business section is growing so fast the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company apparently is unable to keep up with the trend here.

There is demand for six new phones in the 7800 block on the north side of Broadway, but the company has not the cable facilities for the new connections.

Appeal has been made to the company to install additional facilities in this particular block, but so far the company has made no move, so far as the people concerned know, to meet the demand.

With all out war in prospect, the company should get its lines in shape to meet the demands of the public.

The Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce is sending a letter to the company officials asking that the customers in this area be taken care of.

September 14 Is Deadline

Register Now at the Chamber of Commerce, 3440 Main, or Casteel Real Estate, 7810 Broadway.

In order that all citizens may exercise their duty and obligation as members of the community, all who have not registered to vote are urged to do immediately. Unless you are registered on or before Septembr 14 you will be ineligible to vote in the general election in November.

Good government can be acheived only by the intelligent interest and participation of every citizen. This nation is one of the very few in which the citizens have the privilege to vote in free elections, and that right must be maintained by the citizens themselves.

Applicants must be at least 21 years of age at the time of the next succeeding election, a citizen of the United States 90 days prior thereto, and a resident of the State one year, of the County 90 days, and of the precinct 54 days next preceding such election.

The first confirmation classes for young people of Lemon Grove Lutheran Church will begin on Saturday, September 16, at 9:30 a. m. in the pastors study, 2055 Skyline.

The classes meet with the pastor each Saturday throughout the year, for the purpose of learning the chief principles of the Christian Faith. The courses consist in doctrines of the Scriptures and Bible study. At the completion of the classes a Confirmation exercise is conducted.

Next Saturday evening the group will attend a baseball game.

Assistant Pastor at Local Church

Charles H. Betz, pastor of the local Seventh-day Adventist Church is very much pleased with the work that is being accomplished through the help of his assistant pastor, Ellsworth Wellman.

Pastor and Mrs. Wellman, who live at 1680 Elroy, served in a similar capacity at Loma Linda, where the junior division of the College of Medical Evangelists, the Seventh-day Adventist Medical School is located.

The Wellmans are originally from Seattle, Wash. After nearly three years in the army Mr. Wellman attended La Sierra College, near Riverside, where he graduated in 1949. They have a little daughter, two years of age.

Big Opening of LeRoy's Market

Lemon Grove's biggest little market opens this weekend at 7925 Broadway with many inducements for housewives to do their shopping there.

LeRoy "Frenchy" Berube is the proprietor and manager of the meat department.

Fred Stubbe has the grocery department and George Kastelic the fruits and vegetables.

Read the invitation to you to attend their opening on Friday and Saturday on the last page of the Review and then go and give them a welcome to Lemon Grove.

Girl Scout Workers Organize

Because of the large number of Girl Scout and Brownie Troops in Lemon Grove, the Neighborhood Club has been divided into 3 units.

Nearly 20 Girl Scout workers met last Wednesday morning with Mrs. W. Arthur Stevens, 1530 Dupont, to organize the Monterey Heights Neighborhood Club.

Mrs. Edward Kranch (Homeland 6-2012) was named chairman; Mrs. Louis Herrin, (H 6-3556) secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Kenneth Kiesel, program chairman; Mrs. Leon F. Palasik, publicity.

Meetings will be held at 9 a. m. on the third Friday of each month. The September meeting will be with Mrs. Guy Winton, 2065 El Dora.

Parish Schools Open in County

All Catholic schools in the city and county of San Diego will open for the coming school year on Monday, according to an announcement from the Office of Superintendent of Schools of the Diocese of San Diego.

Capacity enrollments are expected in all schools. It has already been necessary in many schools to close the enrollment in some of the elementary grades and to make a waiting list for children unable to be accepted at this time.

Two days of meetings, Thursday and Friday, September 7 and 8 have been scheduled for the teachers of the Diocese at the Academy of Our Lady of Peace in San Diego. Meetings for elementary principals, secondary principals, new teachers, and for special orientation in the teaching of social studies and religion will be held Thursday afternoon and all day Friday will be given over to a reading workshop under the direction of Miss Zoe Rita Desch, Educational Consultant for Scott, Foresman and Company, publishers of the Cathedral Basic Readers, which are used in all elementary schools in the Diocese.

Civic Group Changes Dates

At the meeting of the Monterey Heights Civics Organization, held last Monday night at the school, the group voted unanimously to change their meeting nights to the first and third Tuesday evenings of each month, at 7:30. Previously Tuesday nights had been set aside for work nights, but this activity has been suspended until further notice.

The next step in the development of the Recreation Park is to ascertain from the Department of Public works what the County can and will do to further the work. Claude Hupp has been invited to attend the next meeting on September 19, along with Byron Netzlev, Supt. of Schools and Arthur Thomas, Principal of Monterey Heights School. Since the park property adjoins the school property, it appears that both sites can be improved simultaneously.

R. E. Davy displayed detailed plans which he has drawn up, showing the proposed recreation Park and buildings to be constructed in the future. These plans will be displayed in the near future, where all Monterey Heights residents may study them.

Ferris White reported that September 15 has been set as the date for the White Elephant Sale, to be held on the lot of the Union Oil Station. Mrs. Brunswick and Mrs. Tsongas will be among those assisting Mr. White. D. C. Tucker reported on plans for the street dance to be held at a future date. Both of these activities are to be staged to raise money for the Park project.

All Monterey Heights residents are urged to attend the Civic Organization meetings, as there is a great deal of planning and work ahead before the Recreation Park becomes a reality.

President Gallandt will be on vacation at the time of the next regular meeting, and has asked Mr. Davy to preside in his absence.

Begonia Society Meets Monday

The La Mesa Begonia Society will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock in Porter Park. Miss "Ferns," will be presented by Mrs. C. C. Updyke, vice-president.

Because Captain E. F. Barker, U.S.N., was transferred to the Canal Zone, and W. W. Cook to the Korea area, Mrs. Barker resigned as president and Mrs. Cook as secretary.

The executive board named M. G. Osborn, of San Diego, as president, and Mrs. G. W. McManus, of El Cajon, secretary.

WHITE ELEPHANT SALE

A white elephant sale will be held by Monterey Heights Civic Organization on Friday evening of next week at the Union Oil Station on Engelwood. Receipts will be used to help build the recreation park.

Tells of Y's Men In Mexico City

Art Blomendale, Lemon Grove Y's Men president, made his first report of the International Y's Men's Convention held recently at Mexico City to a combined meeting of the County YMCA Board of Directors and the Chula Vista Y's Men at Savage's in Chula Vista Tuesday evening.

Mr. Blomendale traveled by plane to the convention and reported his experiences of traveling and living in Mexico. Almost 800 delegates from the United States, Canada and many other countries heard reports and studied their services to their communities through the YMCA.

He reported a Communist bamboo curtain is blocking friendly relationships enjoyed between Chinese Y's Men and members of outside countries. He reported increases in clubs and services of the young men's international service organization.

Tribute was paid Art J. Northrop, Associate Y Secretary who will soon leave for the YMCA College in Springfield, Mass., to work for his master's degree. Board members and friends presented him with attfactive luggage.

New Lutheran Parsonage Ready For Occupancy

The new parsonage, built by the Lemon Grove Lutheran Church at the corner of Skyline and Alton drives, has been completed and the pastor, Rev. W. L. Elster, and family will move in this weekend.

The parsonage is the first of a number of buildings to be constructed on this newly acquired property, which commands a beautiful view of Spring Valley and mountains to the north and east.

The home has a large living room, dining room, kitchen, dinette, three bedrooms, pastor's study and bath and a half. Large picture windows give advantage of the beautiful views.

Within the next week work will begin on the first unit of the new church, which will be 74 feet by 40 feet with a 31 foot wing attached.

The site, 205 feet wide and 272 feet deep, is large enough for parking facilities and for tennis courts and other paraphenalia for the young people.

Until the Unit is completed, the Congregation will continue to worship in its rented quarters at the Seventh-day Adventist church at the corner of 28 and Main streets.

Derby Jitters Attack Anglers

If you notice fishermen S. G. Cassell, W. L. MacQueen, John van Gilse, Frank Hobusch or Col. Burgess acting strangely this week just chalk it up to derby jitters for all five will be among 395 other fishermen who will compete Saturday and Sunday in one of the nation's richest fishing derbies, "the fourth annual San Diego Yellowtail Derby." All five men caught Yellowtail during the 3 month qualifying period that made them eligible to compete for the $10,000 in prizes this weekend. The angler catching the largest Yellowtail will be the owner of a new Dodge sedan.

According to latest reports from the sponsoring San Diego Junior Chamber of Commerce, more than 27,000 anglers competed during the qualifying period for the coveted 400 places on derby day.

Cassell, MacQueen and van Gilse have all been assigned to the Sportfisher "Helen V" skippered by Carl Pearson.

District President to Visit Auxiliary

The Auxiliary to Lemon Grove Post No. 2082, V.F.W., will entertain Mrs. Nancy Whitmire, District President, on her official visit on next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. F. G. Capron and Mrs. Brannon will be hostesses. All members of the Auxiliary are urged to be present.

MONTEREY HEIGHTS PTA

"Spare the teachers, ask the parents" is the suggestion of Mrs. Guy Winton, president of the Monterey Heights P.T.A. this year.

The Executive Board will meet with the teachers Friday at 10:30 and parents representative will be at the school on Monday to help in placing each child in the room where he is expected.

Parents who find it necessary to accompany their children on opening day are urged to take advantage of this service.

Full Payment of Trunk Line in Sight

At the director's meeting of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening President Dorman pointed out that with the recent annexations to the Lemon Grove Sanitation District and the large number of new dwelling units proposed in the immediate future, the Sanitation District would be in receipt of enough funds by payment of the $50 connection fees that the remaining sum due to the County of San Diego for the construction of the trunk sewer line would be fully paid.

The directors unanimously passed a resolution requesting the Board of Supervisors to continue the $50 connection fee and also requesting that the proceeds from the collection of said connection fees, after the re-payment of the loan to the County of San Diego, be placed in the general operating fund of the Sanitation District in order to reduce the general tax levy.

A letter from the County Traffic Engineer, E. R. Offenbecher, was read concerning a Chamber request for a pedestrian crossing over the San Diego & Arizona Eastern Railway. Mr. Offenbecher stated that application had been made to the Public Utilities Commission for the purpose of establishing a pedestrian crosswalk across the railway right of way at the extension of the present sidewalk on Broadway.

A list of power and telephone pole numbers, prepared by the Chamber street and road committee, and considered by them to be potential traffic hazards, has been submitted to the San Diego Gas & Electric Co. and the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co. for investigation and installation of visibility strips wherever they feel such marking will serve as an aid to safe driving.

A. F. Sonka, chairman of the street and road committee, has called a meeting of the committee in the Chamber office Wednesday morning, September 13.

Chris Ferguson, A. P. Schnell and Tom Parsons were appointed as voting representatives, from the Chamber of Commerce to the San Diego County Development Federation, which will hold its next meeting Tuesday, September 19, at Chula Vista Recreation Center.

Priced at $15.50, the package also contains: bacon, butter, plum pudding, orange marmalade, rice, coffee, sugar and chocolates.

Since a limited supply of the holiday packages is available, orders are being taken now at the Care office, 217 West Ninth, Los Angeles 15, for delivery in time for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The Radiant California Centenial—II

The Greatest State in the Union Closes Colorful First Century

When James K. Polk of Tennessee was elected President of the United States the democratic platform provided that Texas should be annexed to the Union. Polk soon acted with insight and ability.

The United States and Texas contended that the new state bordered on the Rio Grande on the south, whereas the Mexican Republic limited it to the Nueces river farther north. Polk ordered Zachary Taylor, with about four thousand men, to cross the Nuesces and advances to the Rio Grande.

This invasion vexed the Mexicans, who met and defeated a small detachment of Taylor's army. Polk and Washington were aroused. "Mexico has shed American blood on American soil: war exists and exists by the act of Mexico herself."

In the victories which followed both Zachary Taylor and Winfield Scott won solid distinction. While their campaigns were afoot, other expeditions seized not without stress, suffering and privation. The Mormon Battalion, for instance, achieved the longest gruelling march of infantry known, moving from their tragic plight and bivouas in Iowa down through Kansas, New Mexico, Arizona and Southern California to San Diego, thus having definitely aided the conquest of the Golden State.

Ten days before the treaty was signed at Guadalupe Hidalgo, gold was discovered on the American river, soon setting the whole world agog. This treaty added nearly 700 thousand square miles to the United States, an area second only to that of the Louisiana Purchase, fathered by Thomas Jefferson. But for the resolute nature of Polk, the cession of New Mexico and California never could have been achieved. He stood his ground even when the great Daniel Webster threatened to undermine it.

Webster railed at the vast waste which was acquired as an indemnity for the cost of war. "I hold New Mexico and California are not worth a single dollar." In this Major Gaines of the House, who had visited this region, warmly concurred. "The whole country may be truly called a perfect waste, uninhabited and unihabitable. It is not now and can never be of the slightest value."

In the fierce light of history and acts of reclamation, magical beyond dreams, one must not criticize these two dignitaries too harshly, for America was land poor at the time, when vast areas, like a wide and wild ocean seemed more of a menace than benefit.

Even 20 years later, the purchase of Alaska for a pittance was dubbed "Seward's Folly." Statesmen and business men are often too engrossed to sense or guess the miraculous truth. These days, even, despite obvious facts, politicians flounder and tradesmen dally with fate. James K. Polk lacked personal charm and popularity, but he now stands as one of the great invincible presidents of the Union, whose foresight and determination added the great Southwest to the map of America, a region which will eclipse the Arabian Nights and the New Atlantis.

At first the Southwest was composed of two major areas: California and New Mexico and Utah, which, in its turn, comprised Nevada, Utah as at present constituted, and western Colorado. Still later, Arizona was detached from New Mexico and set apart as a territory and later as a state, the 48th and last, in the year 1912. Previously, in the year of 1861 Colorado was formed out of the great alpine parts of eastern Utah and the dry western reaches of Kansas, whose governor Denver favored and promoted the compact.

These six spacious states together with the five of the Northwest create a vast western Arcady, whose lofty mountains, picturesque seashores, lakes, rivers and valleys shape a storied wonderland which the world is beginning to acclaim.

In the Southwest, for instance, are four of the seven natural world wonders. First in importance and impressiveness is the Grand Canyon of the Colorado; second, hardly less amazing, the giant trees of California; third, Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico; fourth, the Rainbow Bridge in southern Utah, where also, are Zion National Park, Bryce Canyon and Monument valley. Each of the six states of the Pacific Southwest has many notable scenes and marks of distinction, visited and eulogized by hundreds of thousands every year.

New Mexico, the fourth of the United States in area, 122,634 square miles, is, to give a just comparison, slightly larger than all Italy, whose population of 42,500,000 is 80 times that of New Mexicco. The capital, Santa Fe, is the second oldest city in the Union — established, in fact, years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock.

San Miguel Mission in Santa Fe is the oldest church in the United States and the Governor's Palace, is the oldest government building. In this unique structure Lew Wallace, once territorial governor, wrote his great novel, Ben Hur. The distinctive pueblo architecture seen in many parts of the city has one of its typical examples in La Fonda Hotel, which is richly adorned with Indian regalia, Navajo rugs and the luxurious comforts of a castle.

Albuquerque, the state's largest city, is a health resort and the principal trade center, also the outpost of an extensive region in which bizarre Indian ceremonials are staged. The University of New Mexico, done in pueblo motif, is located in Albuquerque.

Taos, with its great pueblo and its art colony, is just north of Santa Fe. The famous scout Kit Carson lived and died there. Carlsbad Caverns tops the natural wonders of the state, and agriculture, livestick, copper mining and smelting lead in the resources.

In Arizona is the world's greatest natural wonder, the Grand Canyon. This gigantic gorge is 217 miles long, with a width at the top from 18 miles down to the sheer abysmal walls which cleave the desert. Agriculture now thrives in this once forbidding domain, particularly in the Salt River Valley where Phoenix presides and in the fertile Yuma corner, on the edge of which flows the mighty Colorado. From such stretches, reclaimed by huge dams and irrigation, are now shipped trainloads of carrots, lettuce, melons, cotton, alfalfa, grapes, dates, lemons, oranges. Also, mines flourish in Arizona, especially the huge copper cuts, which yield a yearly income of 50 million.

Nevada has an area of 110,690 square miles, which untill but lately exceeded the population. Here were the great open spaces which typified the west; but after the war there was a sudden accession, with Las Vegas leading in glamour and expansion, abetted naturally by the proximity and facility of Hoover Dam, man's miracle. The lights and laissez-faire of Fremont street illumines the night, and far along the highway palatial hotels, motels and resorts rose as if by Arabian magic.

To the north, Reno, a great synonym, registered careless high life and activity, unique in the nation. Virginia City and the Comstock still gild the fabulous past and ghost towns and historic claims attract the tourists.

Mining is still dominant, with copper, silver and gold in the vanguard. Little more than five precent of the land is devoted to agriculture, but much of the land produces good forage, suitable for their large numbers of sheep and cattle. Many spacious ranches are held by tycoons east and west; and the lovely Lake Tahoe, half of which is in Sierra Nevada, attracts thousands.

Utah, once an epithet, now a vigorous state, was shunned a century ago as the impossible part of the Great American Desert; but Brigham Young boldly said "this is thte place" when he scrutinized its forbidding wastes. Time has vindicated his sagacity. Years later Abraham Lincoln called it the treasure-house of the nation, rich in every kind of mineral.

In the recent war the Geneva Steel Mills were established at a cost of 200 million, both coal and iron in endless tonnage, being available nearby. Logan, Provo, Ogden and Salt Lake City are the chief centers, the last of which is both a mecca and market of worth and distinction. Its shrines, environs and distant parks draw thousands, literally verifying its claim: Center of scenic America. The area of Utah is 84,917 square miles; the population in excess of 650,000. Agriculture, livestock, mining and industry predominate in its life and economy.

Colorado is like a great Himalayan sancturay, with snowy peaks and verdant valley from Denver west. The people exult in their varied paradise of trout streams, game reserves, ski runs, rock-rimmed amphitheatres, mountain trails and large national parks, visited yearly by 600,000 or more. Especially impressive is the Mesa Verde, National Park in the southwestern corner. Here the ancient cliff dwellers lived; and here, among the many other ruins, is the Cliff Palace, largest in the world with over 200 rooms. Such old glories still abide in other parts of the state, also many mines, old and new, producing state revenues outshone only by livestock and agriculture, for which the upland pastures and lowland farms are sublimely suited.

Lastly comes California, an article which appeared last week. California, more like an empire than one of the federal states, with which it is loyally allied—a self-sufficient state, having everything, large parts of which it shares with every state in the Union.

The marvel of the Southwest will continue to astonish. Even 50 years ago the possibilities were unguessed: great roads over desert and mountain, with cars dwarfing distance and uniting wide neighborhoods; dams and irrigation redeeming the vast waste places; the movies, radio, and television adding zest and quick communication; air-conditioning and livability even in the intense heat of Death Valley and Imperial County, where a hundred million is earned every year in agricultural stretches once useless.

Thanks to the mighty Colorado and other streams, oases appear everywhere, often waxing into cities and centers like Phoenix, Palm Springs and Las Vegas. Every obstacle is an opportunity and difficulties exist to be subdued. The seething sun itself will be utilized as never before. Said Millikan: It would take a million tons of coal to ripen one acre of strawberries; but a few tons of water and southern sun will do a much better job. "The stone the builders rejected has become the chief corner stone."

Will TV Influence Your IQ? It Can Be a Cultural Medium

By BILLY ROSE

As an old blab merchant, I seldom pay much attention to other fellow's speeches, and when I do it's generally to take umbrage rather than notice.

This week, however, I'd like to turn coat and tables on myself and do some hefty hollering about a speech on the future of television recently delivered by Dr. Millard Faught, an economist, at a University Club of Chicago. I happened to pop-eye a copy of it the other day, and while I haven't the space to give you the whole 4,000 words, here's a bit of the cream off the top . . .

To begin with, Dr. Faught axioms that TV can be used for a lot of things besides selling eyewash, mouthwash and hogwash, and insists that its full potentialities will never be realized if we allow it to be taken over lock, stock and antenna by the hucksters. In his opinion, the new dingus can do an unprecedented job for us in a dozen esthetic fields providing, of course, that a method can be devised whereby someone besides the advertiser foots part of the bill.

Billy Rose

The gimmick he suggests is a television box office operating on a pay-as-you-see-it basis, and the one he specifically mentions in his speech—Phonevision—is due to be tested in Chicago this fall with the blessings of the F.C.C.

LEAVING ELECTRONIC double-talk out of it, Phonevision, which has recently demonstrated for me, is simply this: a system whereby 9 per cent of an image is telecast free of charge, but shows up on the home screen as so much hash. To unscramble the picture one picks up the phone and asks the operator to pipe in the missing 1 per cent through a gadget on his set hooked up to his telephone line.

At the end of the month, the charge for this service is included in his phone bill, and the gross take is divvied betwen the television station, the creator of the program, and the phone company.

According to Dr. Faught, Phonevision—or some equivalent device—will make it possible to collect millions of dollars in a single evening for, let us say, the Red Cross by putting on one nationwide benefit video show. It will enable our tick-until-dearth Hollywood studios to quintuple their audiences and double their grosses, and also make possible 10-million-dollar gates for championship fights and World Series games. But, opines the good doctor, its most eye-bugging impact will be on education.

By bringing the classroom into the home, it will be possible for 100,000 students simultaneously to take the same beginners' course in Spanish, or child care, or interior decorating, whereas the average class on campus today consists of from 25 to 50 students.

YOU-SEE revenue from these home extension courses would provide the monies for new university buildings, laboratories, scholarships and teachers' salaries, and once and for all our colleges could stop passing the hat. Education, the doc goes on to say, is our best bet to stand off totalitarianism, despite which it's probably the most obsoletely merchandized comodity in our society.

The economist stresses that he has no quarrel with the advertisers, but maintains that if they're the only source of revenue, TV is a cinch to wind up the same sort of cultural pigmy that radio is.

The living room, he argues, is probably the room farthest removed from the marketplace, and if Joe Jones and his missus want something in it besides cornflake and Cuticura commercials, they'll have to contribute the pennies to make it possible. The government could probably be pressured into doing it for them, but who with an IQ above zero, asks Dr. Faught, wants political appointees messing with our educational processes and cultural preferences?

I particularly like the last line of his speech: "Never in the history of the communicative arts was there a greater premium on foresight."

BUILDING AHEAD IN CALIFORNIA

Some 18 years ago, philosophers of the New Deal "informed" U. S. business and industry that this country was permanently washed up as a dynamic, ever-expanding, free enterprise economy. They cited graphs and charts to prove their case, within a few years, they said, population growth would cease. They explained the depression by arguing that capacity for mass consumption already had been exceeded by mass production. It was time, they dolefully warned, to quit building ahead.

Yet men of initiative and daring refused to sell America short. Industry built ahead anyway, in steel, in transportation, in power, in agriculture. Then came World War II, with its unprecedented, abnormal production requirements. And the men who had built were ready. They armed America and the whole free world! They fed America and the whole free world!

But when victory came, the Fair Deal-New Deal prophets revived the old theme. Now we really were overbuilt industrially! We'd have eight million on the dole within the year! Revive the WPA; appropriate make-work billions, before it is too late!

The real builders, again, paid no heed. Five years have passed. In those years, one California power company alone, has put a billion dollars into expansion investment. Because of this building ahead, the company recently served the greatest peak in power demand in all its history, with a reserve of 19 percent. of capacity to spare! The future? The company is building ahead, full blast, with a six-year program. The post-war expansion program of a single railroad, the Southern Pacific, already includes 28 630 freight cars and 350 diesel electric locomotives in new equipment! And more people of our nation's population, which is soaring, are employed than ever before.

So long, and only so long, as this great Nation has men of courage and vision who are free to build ahead, will it have the economic strength and prosperity to inspire confidence within our borders, and to command respect from potential enemies beyond them.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, CALIFORNIA

States, unlike the people who love them, are timeless—need never grow old. And on her hundredth birthday, lusty is the word for California—just as lusty was the word for the roaring, boisterous land of pioneers of 1850.

What a day that was in California! In yellowed newspapers, in the old Congressional Globe, the story comes alive and pulsing; it burns and sparkles:

William Henry Seward rising in the Senate, on the day the vote on admission was taken, to quell bitter debate with the ringing declaration: "The fate of an empire hangs upon the decision of this day!"

The news reaching California: Men shouting their joy in the streets—throngs mobbing newsboys to buy papers at $5 a copy—Stagecoach drivers bellowing "California is admitted! California is admitted!" to wayfarers along lonely roads—bearded men in far mining camps toasting their beloved California until (sad to say) they collapsed in dead drunkenness.

A day—judging by the enthusiastic preparation for this year's celebration over all the face of the land of California—never to be forgotten.

Happy birthday, California!

PRAYER OF SOCIALIST STATE

"The State is my Shepherd, I shall not work; it maketh me to lie down on good jobs, it leadeth me by the still factories. It deadens my soul; it leadeth me in the paths of idleness for politic's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of slothfulness and economic disaster, I will fear no evil, for it will be with me; its dole and paternalism, they comfort me. It prepareth a Utopia for me by appropriating the earnings of the frugal; it filleth my head with fool expectations; my mounting inefficiency runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; I shall live on the bounty of the State forever."

IS IT DANGEROUS TO VOTE?

The one freedom from which all other freedoms spring is the American freedom to vote.

In the light of that truism, it is astonishing to find any group of men in any walk of American life who would seriously question the right of their fellow citizens to vote. Yet the Commissioners of the City Housing Authority of Los Angeles in a resolution adopted last week described the voting privilege as a "dangerous precedent!"

The Authority's amazing statement was in support of its opposition to Proposition 10 on the coming November ballot. Proposition 10 will give local citizens the right to vote or against the establishment of public housing projects in their communities. The Authority, whose existence depend on the promotion of such projects, apparently fears that some projects would not be adopted if citizens are given the "dangerous precedent" of voting.

The Authority's resolution also objected to voting on the grounds that elections cost money. Actually that argument has little bearing on Proposition 10, for voting on housing projects would normally be included with other ballot matters at regular election dates. But in any case objections to voting on that score would apply equally to voting for Governors, Senators or Presidents.

It might be cheaper to dispense with voting altogether, but we have a feeling most people would concur that that course would be the "dangerous" one!

Political Parade

CLEM WHITAKER, Jr.

In the famed Palm Court of San Francisco's Palace Hotel, James Roosevelt hopes to have launched a new California era—the era of the "Even Break."

Opening his bid last week for election to the governorship at the General Election, November 7, Roosevelt bitterly berated California newspapers opposing him, cracked out at Governor Warren's "non partisanship" and called on heavily Democratic California to vote Democratic for an "Even Break for all our citizens."

"I want to usher in for California the day of the 'Even Break' for all the people," Roosevelt exclaimed, "for those who were born here as well as for the milloins who have arrived in recent years, for small business with big business, for the students now pouring out of our colleges, for the aged, the blind, and the handicapped, for the socially oppressed, who thus far have been penalized by reason of birth, or because they live on the so-called 'wrong side of the tracks'."

Lashing out at the State's newspapers (for opposing him) Roosevelt charged: "We Democrats—and the Democratic Party—must be prepared for the attacks, the vicious attacks, that will come from the Republican newspapers. As we gather momentum and march toward victory the attacks will become intensified."

Roosevelt then suggested that California Democrats stop playing footsie with the Republicans. "I count on all fellow Democrats not to be deceived a third time by the Republican confidence game which has become the shame of our State," he stated.

Continuing with the theme that it is a shame to have Republicans in office in California, Roosevelt declared: "We are determined to bring to California an honest form of government—one that does not hide under the robes of nonpartisanship, but is proud to identify itself as Democratic.

"The fight that we shall engage in will renew the bright flame of Democracy in California" said Roosevelt. We shall usher in the era of the "Even Break" for all the people. We will bring about an "Even Break" on "schools and education, transportation fares, highways, housing and State hospitals."

So is launched James Roosevelt's drive to somehow convince the people of California that what is missing is the "Even Break." Whether the voters decide they can get a "Better Break" won't be known until the night of November 7. In the meantime, following his opening from the stately Palace Hotel on August 30, Roosevelt promises to carry the story of the "Even Break" up and down the State. His mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, reportedly is scheduled to arrive September 11 to lend a hand.

FROM THE NEWS CIRCUIT

JAMES DORAIS

"Don't look a gift horse in the mouth" may be good advice under certain circumstances—but not at election time.

Election time is traditionally a time of promises offered and campaign "gifts proffered. But too often promises are quickly forgotten and too often the gifts turn out to be white elephants. The wise voter takes the promises with a grain of salt and subjects the gifts to thorough scrutiny.

Two measures on the November ballot—Proposition No. 1 and Proposition No. 6—are perfect examples of the gift technique.

Proposition No. 1 calls for repeal of the personal property tax. To most people, that particular tax doesn't amount to a great deal and is usually regarded as a nuisance. However, in these days of high taxes generally and with every likelihood of sharp increases in Federal income taxes, any tax relief at all, no matter how small, would be welcomed.

Unfortunately, Proposition No. 1 has no glaring fault. It removes a source of tax revenue, but makes no provision to cut government costs accordingly. And the tax source removed is an extremely important one—for personal property taxes account for about 21 percent. of all local taxes collected.

The nuisance tax the householder pays on his furniture is only a small part of the total—the bulk of personal property levies collected in California is paid by Eastern manufacturers and other concerns who own little or no real property, but have large inventories and equipment.

Proposition No. 1 isn't a gift at all—it is an attempt by a few to shift their rightful share of the cost of local government to the general public. If proposition No. 1 were enacted it would mean that the revenues lost would have to be made up by other taxes—most likely either through increased real property taxes, sharply increased sales taxes, or both!

Promoters of Proposition No. 6—the sky's-the-limit gambling scheme—claim that their measure would pave the way for tax reduction by providing a new source of revenue for payment of present pension costs. But that gift is no bargain either.

For Proposition No. 6 specifically exempts gambling establishments from local taxes. Local communities, therefore, would have to bear the staggering cost of policing them.

And according to the California State Chamber of Commerce, the legalized gambling "industry," in order to pay present pension costs and the operating costs of the proposed Gambling Commission, would have to gross nearly two billion dollars a year! Inasmuch as that is more than one-tenth of the total annual income in California, it clearly follows that tax collections from all other sources would be reduced accordingly.

Voters who look their gift horses in the mouth aren't likely to be fooled in November by either Proposition No. 1 or Proposition No. 6.

THE FISH HAWK

Osprey, Fish Hawk, Pandion Haliaetus Carolinensis. Whether or not fish is proper brain food depends as some one has wittingly remarked, "more upon the brain than it does upon the fish."

An exclusive diet of fish has not made the Fish Hawk either brainy or valiant. We need not be troubled on the latter score, though, for in a family where prowess and tyranny are almost synonymous, it is comfort to find birds who mind their own business and exhibit a proper humility. Ospreys are simple hearted, honest folk, and they deserve protection, if for no better reason, simply because they are inoffensive and picturesque.

The fact that these birds require a few edible fish for their annual support has greatly preyed upon the minds of certain men who reckon their own catch by the hundred-weight, and a cruel persecution has broken out in some quarters, persecution as senseless as it is selfish. No true sportsman, however, will begrudge to this bird his hard earned catch, taken by plunge and strike, which is if anything, rather more sportsmanlike than use of line and lure.

The Osprey preys exclusively on fish and covers long stretches of water in its tireless search. It flies along at a height of 50 or 100 feet above water, and when its finny prey is sighted, pauses on hovering wings then drops with a resounding splash often quite disappearing beneath the water but rising again quickly with a fish firmly secured in its talons. Upon rising, the bird immediately adjusts the catch, placing its head foremost, so that it will offer the least resistance to the air in flight. Not infrequently the Hawk secures a fish which it is barely able to handle, and occasionally it strikes one so large that it is drawn under and drowned before it can disengage its claws.

Clear water is essential to the Osprey's success for he must needs see and strike from afar. The bird has little use for the silt-stained waters of the lowlands, and it avoids the storm-tossed waters of our western coast. The more placid seas which surround our southern islands—San Clemente, Catalina and the rest, afford a congenial summer home. A few linger here during the winter.

In the interior, the Osprey is likely to show up almost anywhere during the spring migrations, especially along the north-and-south trending valleys, such as the Sacramento, Owens river and the Colorado.

A few breed in the lower Sierran Valleys and Ospreys have been seen in summer in the Goose Lake. Doubtless many of the larger lakes and rivers of California boasted their local Fish Hawk, but the only remaining stronghold of this species of the interior appears to be Eagle Lake, whose comparative inaccessibility coupled with an abundance of suitable nesting sites has held a good population.

A typical Osprey's nest is a huge aggregation of sticks, bark and trash and is placed either on top of a broken pine or fir stub or else lodged in some convenient cliff or isolated spur of rock. A normal nest is flat on top, three or feet across, and from three to seven in depth, according to age. Within a little depression in the center of the platform, surrounded by soft materials, lie two or three eggs of moderate size, rich chocolate on a tinted ground. If the female is on, the male tired of fishing is likely to be standing l side. Both birds will ris our approach, and will p mid-air above our head picious and uttering their screams or "whistles" o test, ki-ik, ki-ik, ki-ik. Preparing for Wet Winter

Many people are predicting that 1950 will be the heavy rainy winter that is long overdue. Many farmers are so convinced of this that they are now taking steps to reduce or prevent soil erosion and other damage that can result from heavy rainfall, Farm Advisor Joe Coony reports "It is encouraging to note the number of farmers thtt have already visited, called, or written in for information about covercrops, rates of seeding, and other related items."

The best erosion protection for hillsides is some growing crop that gives good cover. For a cover crop that must be planted, now is the time to procure the seed. Planting can take place in October. Where erosion control is of primary concern, a cereal such as oats or barley can be used at 45-55 pounds per acre. In orchards 20-30 pounds of barley can be mixed with 20 pounds of purple vetch, a very desirable legume

We need rains that will result in surface runoff to refill our storage basins, adds Coony. Any way the farmer can arrange for the orderly movement of surface runoff with least erosion is good practice indeed.

Don't Hang Gadgets in Car

Junior's baby shoes may be a precious momento, but they are out of place dangling from the rear-view mirror of your car.

So states the California Highway Patrol. And that also goes for flapping "birds" or other gadgets calculated to distract your attention while driving.

Coast Guard Recruiting

The newly organized San Diego Unit of the Coast Guard Reserve commanded by Lt. Cmdr. Edwin Pumala is proving that the well known Coast Guard motto "Always Ready" has not been forgotten by its former members. Mr. Pumala states, "Enrollments are growing each week but we are not yet near full strength. Word is being passed around and we hope to soon have a full compliment in both our organized unit which meets each Saturday and in the inactive unit meeting each Tuesday evening."

All former Coast Guard enlisted personnel, both reserves and regulars as well as SPARS, will be enrolled in the inactive reserve at their former rate. members of the inactive reserve are eligible to request transfer to the organized unit when vacancies exist. At the present time there are a number of openings for Administrative and Captain of the Port duties.

Complete information and enrollment applications may be obtained at the Coast Guard Air Station, Lindberg Field each Saturday or at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday evenings. All former members are welcome. No physical examination is required at this time but Discharge Papers should be brought along.

Help spread the news. Tell all your friends who were formerly in the Coast Guard about their new San Diego Reserve Unit.

VEGETABLES CAN STAY GARDEN FRESH

Get the most from your vegetables by keeping the garden fresh, recommends Home Advisor Delphine D. Wilson. Harvest them at the best stage for eating, and store them under favorable conditions.

Some vegetables keep better in storage than others. Asparagus, sweet corn, lima beans, and peas will not keep long. Even at a storage of 32 degrees F., sweet corn will not stay fresh more than three to six days. Asparagus and peas will keep for a week or two at that temperature, but no more. Lima beans prefer a little warmer temperature of 40 degrees for storage. Some root vegetables such as carrots, garlic, onions and rutabagas will keep 16 weeks or more at a temperature of 32 degrees.

Once a vegetable has been removed from the plant it loses its source of nourishment. All storage can do is preserve what is there. To keep vegetables at top quality after they are harvested, Mrs. Wilson says keep them under desirable storage conditions, and do not keep them too long.
